Advertising and Children

ESSENTIAL QUESTION

Should restrictions be placed on marketing that targets children?

Broadcasting technology changed how advertising was delivered to the public. It also changed whom the advertising was delivered to. With the advent of television, which became highly commercialized in the 1950s, advertisers could market their commercial messages to many more market segments—including children. As a result, advertising has been heavily criticized. Consumer advocates have accused advertising of victimizing children too young to tell the difference between a sales pitch and disinterested advice. Recently, steps have

L.A. Warns School Districts on Billboards

Los Angeles Times | Blume, Howard | p.g. B.3 | Dec 10, 2016 | Lexile: 1280 | SIRS® Issues Researcher

"The Los Angeles city attorney has told local school district officials that installing commercial billboards on school property would violate city law. Although school districts, including L.A. Unified, have broad latitude over land-use matters—sometimes trumping city authority—the rules of the city prevail in this situation, City Atty. Mike Feuer said in a statement in response to news that the school district was considering erecting a billboard at Hollywood High School." (Los Angeles Times) This article reports that the principal of Hollywood High has withdrawn the billboard proposal.

Billboards at Public Schools?

Los Angeles Times | p.g. A.16 | Dec 1, 2016 | Lexile: 1310 | SIRS® Issues Researcher

"Marketing on school campuses has had a checkered career. Schools have taken money in the past to provide exclusive access to one soda company or another—thus encouraging the consumption of large amounts of sugar by students as well as loyalty to a particular brand. One school in Georgia even suspended..."

Social & Cultural Counseling Techniques
World History presents multi-media histories of the major themes in the discipline: early encounters, war and conflict, women's activism, disease and epidemic, revolutions, and migrations. Using newsreels, archival footage, and documentaries, students and teachers can find materials relevant to a wide range of assignments. World Newsreels and World History allow users to explore, for example, many aspects of World War II, including the Home Front, the battlegrounds, the military aspect, the Holocaust, and the media coverage from the main countries involved.

Subject: Violation of Border by Czech SNB Official

The Bavarian BP Kommissariat Marktredwitz reports:

On July 23, 1950, approximately at 1630 hrs, the border police detected a violation of the border between the FRG and GDR at the border crossing Karl-Marx-Stadt. The Czech SNB official, identified as Zdeněk Novák, crossed the border without the necessary passes.

The border police confiscated the official's identification card and requested that he be handed over to the authorities of the GDR. The Czech official refused to cooperate and attempted to escape. The border police were forced to use force to prevent his escape.

The Czech official was subsequently handed over to the GDR authorities. The case is being investigated further.

- types of resources
- strategies for finding useful information
Terms

Boolean operators: Simple words like AND and OR that tell the search engine how to interpret your request

Discovery tool: Digital library tool that searches sources available both via the library catalog and via subscription databases from one search box

Library catalog: Searchable index of the library’s holdings (print resources, multimedia items, and sometimes ebooks and digital periodicals to which the library subscribes)

Open web: Information on the internet that you can access for free and without a password.

Subscription databases: Collections of articles or other documents that can be searched; usually digital and accessible online
Checklist

- Step 1 Decide whether the information you need can be found on the open web, in your library's resources, or in the world around you.

- Step 2 If the information you need is available only through your library's resources, decide whether it will be easier to find through the library catalog or through subscription databases.

- Step 3 Depending on where you are looking for information, devise search strategies most likely to return useful results (the Search Aid can help you here).
Tool: Search Aid

In this module, we have made the point that different resources require different search strategies and different keywords. With the Search Aid you can experiment with related search terms and different ways of ordering them. You can then compare the results of your searches, based on whether you choose to search the open web, the library catalog, or subscription databases.
